ing the exercise of different rules with reference to this subject, viz: Those that have been assisted by the state, which I will call subsidy roads, and those that have been built by counties, towns and private means, without any help from the state, which I will call independent roads. It is with the "subsidy roads" that I propose to deal at present. roads" that I propose to deal at present.
In my view, the present enactments of our law-making power perpetrate a great wrong upon a large majority of the tax payers of the state; and if so, an instant remedy should be provided.

If a calculation were made to-day of the amount, in lands and money (and such can be easily done at the Auditor's office.) that has been furnished to the various subsidy roads, with compound interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, the aggregate would startle every man who has not given the subject close consideration. I will call it blank millions, for exactitude as to amount is not essential to the presentation of my

The Legislature, in the exercise of the questionable right of taking said blank millions of dollars of public property lands, bonds and money—and turning the same over to said subsidy roads, took, used and converted the property of the people of the whole state of Missouri; property belonging to each county, St. Louis, Stone, Jackson, Taney and all others, and the people thereof share and share alike, according to the taxable wealth of each, at the time i Whether or not the Acts of the state by which it accomplished its end amounted to a donation of that immense public property to said railroads, or merely to a conversion of the same into a new and different property in which the whole people of the state, by a fiction of law, yet hold an equal interest, as in the original property, are not questions that require consideration in this connection. Equitable taxes are to be imposed upon all of said railroads, and the same are to be collected. The state can apply them as it chooses, or even remit them. But how, consistently with law, equity, jus-tice and righteeusness, shall the aggre-gate of all such taxes be applied or distributed? Who ought to receive and enjoy the same? I maintain that the entire proceeds of all taxes collected upon all subsidy railroads should go into the state Treasury and be applied to the state debts alone. This would be treating the tax payers of every county in the state, regardless of locality, with the same equality and impartiality that were observed by the imposition of said blank millions of susidy debt upon them. One hundred and fourteen counties in Missouri involved themselves equally, according to wealth, in this enormous according to wealth, in this enormous BOTTOM PRICES. that they are in a condition to yield returns or payments in the shape of taxes, let the same people in every county large or small, by the same rule enjoy otherwise and permit the few counties of taxation—except the quarter of one per cent. to state—as under present laws—is to allow the few lucky counties to be enriched by a depletion of the many. It amounts to a robbery of the large majority of the counties in this state, who recieve no benefits from said subsidy roads, of mil-lions of dollars, and enriches the few lions of dollars, and enriches the few lucky ones to a corresponding amount.

Now let us illustrate the practical workings of the present laws; by reference only to one of the several subsidy roads, and one county favored with its location and one not. Take for instance the Pacific road. The people of one hundred and fourteen counties have paid, or contracted to pay all equally according contracted to pay, all equally, according to wealth, say $10,000,000, including interest, as a subsidy. In its entire length it only touches twelve counties. Now,I will take Cole and Lafayette for illustra-tion only. Any other two counties, sim-ilarly situated, with reference to the Pacific or any other subsidy road, will bear comparison with the same results.

Cole is on the Pacific railroad, and paid

one-third as much of said $10,000,000 as Lafayette, which is off the road, and in point of fact was greatly injured by its location. In other words, Lafayette paid three times (more or less) as much toward making the Pacific road through Cole county as Cole itself paid for the Lafayette enjoy the benefits and fruits of its property converted into a railroad, the same as Cole?

Again, there is a large state interest

ax annually collected, to pay this identical subsidy to the Pacific railroad and others. The Pacific railroad part is not collected from the twelve counties that it touches alone, but the other one hun-dred and two counties are taxed equally with the favored twelve to pay it. Last year Cole paid on this tax $8,482 75, whits Lafayette paid $16,994 75, or over double the amount of Cole. Under the present laws, Cole is allowed to enjoy rents or taxes on $786,401 39 of said which great which great which great which great which great which great to quanty felegi-6m road, which sum at two per cent, for county taxes, will yield them $15,782 02 per annum, or $7,245 27 more than the TIVOLI SALOON, whole interest tax paid by said county, whilst Lafayette, that pays more than double the interest tax, does not in return whole interest tax paid by said county, whilst Lafayette, that pays more than double the interest tax, does not in return receive a cent. Now, why should an odious law be allowed to remain unrepealed, that permits one county to enjoy an immense annual income upon propad seems.

As been removed from Franklin to Main street, to Main an immense annual income upon prop-erty not its own, but upon a road the building of which burdened one hundred and thirteen counties as much as itself, The retention of such taxes in the state treasury and their disbursement for state purposes alone, will cure this great wrong, and place the funds where they in justice belong. When we reflect upon the inestimable advantages which the mere location of these subsidy roads gave to the favored counties, apart from other considerations, and contemplate the operation of the present law if permitted to stand, upon the near future, say only twenty five years, we stand amazed at the stupendous outrage that will have been committed in the name of law. Millions of dollars will have been extorted from all the counties not touched by said subsidy roads, and turned over to the treasuries of the comparatively few counties that enjoy their
